

Separate sign:

Wooden pony keg and crate from the 1910s, courtesy of the Terre Haute Brewing Company.

Artifact guide:

An assortment of Breweriana from the VCPL Archives and Terre Haute Brewing Company.

1. Champagne Velvet cans dating from the 1930s to the 1960s. Canning was introduced to the beverage industry in 1935. The aluminum can is demarcated with "Please don't litter."
2. Assortment of bottles found at the Terre Haute Brewing Company, range of years is unknown. Champagne Velvet, touted as the beer "with the Million Dollar Flavor," came in bottles produced by Owens-Illinois Glass Company. Redtop brand was produced in limited quantities in the late 1950s. The attached bottle opener is likely from the 1940s.
3. Vintage Champagne Velvet coaster.
4. One quart of Champagne Velvet which dates from the late 1940s.
5. Assortment of items from the revival of the Terre Haute Brewing Company in the early 2000s. The pitcher and full bottle of Champagne Velvet were donated to the Vigo County Public Library Archives in the year 2000.
6. Modern-day growlers from the Terre Haute Brewing Company.